

Attention Legacy Scholars New This Year!

Starting this year, we're changing the system to make sure more students can access the support they need to thrive in college and career!

Last-dollar restrictions have been removed. What this means is students can use the Legacy Scholars funds in addition to other financial aid, like Pell Grants. The Legacy Scholars will be able to receive funds on a financial needs basis. This means that students who also receive need-based federal and state financial aid, can receive both, without being required to use other funds towards tuition first. Legacy Scholars support will cover tuition, fees and books, giving students the chance to use other need-based financial aid for essential expenses like food, transportation and childcare.
